

No one (yet) has been to Mars.

Twelve people have been to the Moon.

4,000 people have been to the Summit of Mt. Everest.

Fewer than 950 people get to the North Pole each year.

We'd like you to be one of them.

Learn more from our special guests:

Jim and Linda Bendt, owners of Pique Travel (and frequent travelers who recently returned from a trip to the Arctic)

Cara Matthews, from Quark Expeditions

Dr. Chuck Huss, who led the 2001 Stretch Expedition to Mount Everest Basecamp and will serve as the Expedition Doctor on this trip to the North Pole

TRIP HIGHLIGHTS

- 14-day expedition in late June 2019
- Hosted by Quark Expeditions, a global leader in polar expeditions
- Voyage on a nuclear-powered Russian ice breaking ship that departs from Murmansk, Russia
- Travel with 80 explorers from around the world
- Reach the North Pole located at 90 degrees latitude, where every direction you look is South
- Because this will truly be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, pricing will be higher than past Stretch Expeditions. Cost per person will be approximately $31,000
- We are currently holding just 15 spots for this expedition

Go Big. Go Bold. Go Cold!
